

A Crosby Family: Josiah Crosby, Sarah Fitch and Their Descendants (Classic Reprint)

Excerpt from A Crosby Family: Josiah Crosby, Sarah Fitch and Their Descendants

To My Relatives: It is proper I should inform you why I have undertaken to publish this book. Some years ago the Rev. Dr. Howard Crosby, Chancellor of the University of New York, and my brother, Alpheus Crosby, made some progress in an effort to prepare a general genealogy of the Crosbys in the United States, and my brother enlisted me in the service of preparation of the branch of my own family, from my grandfather, Josiah Crosby, downward. Having gathered much material for my part of the work, the other and larger part remained substantially unaccomplished, and our department slumbered with the data in my own hands. After the sudden death of my brother Alpheus, who was twelve years younger than myself, and who was soon followed by my brother Josiah, leaving me the only survivor of six brothers, who had lived without a break in our brotherhood fifty years, I was seriously impressed with the call upon myself to do this work. Had my brother Alpheus survived me the duty and responsibility of disposition of our material would have fallen upon abler and more careful hands, but while we were both living, I felt at ease about the matter. The suddenness of the loss of my five brothers, between March 1st, 1872, and January 7th, 1875, aroused me to complete the work I now present you, that my previous labor should not be lost, and that my varied knowledge of many of the early members of the family should not also be lost.
