Excerpt from Provincetown Or, Odds and Ends From the Tip End: A Brief Historical Description of Provincetown, Past and Present; Old Records; Landing of the Pilgrims; Loss of the English Frigate Somerset; The Fire Department; D. C. Freeman Post 55; G. A. R.; Whales and Whaling; Codfishing; Public Buildings; A Few Bio In preparing this book for the public, I do not lay any claim to its being a work of literary merit, nor that it will fill a long-felt want in American literature. The claim I make for it is full explained in the title, - Odds and Ends from the Tip End. I am fully aware of the fact that there is much of interest in this quaint, old town that I have not referred to, but to describe everything would require years of labor and form a library of many volumes, - a task for an abler pen than mine. In the historical part I have endeavored to be as correct as possible, but where one has to depend so largely upon tradition, errors will unavoidably creep in. The Old Records have been faithfully copied from the original books, and of them I can truthfully say, that they are verbatim copies. In Stories, Incidents and Anecdotes, every one is true, with one exception, and that the reader must be very obtuse not to discern. Some of the Organizations which I have described I have submitted my manuscript to members of, who have corrected and approved it.
